Structure of Apprenticeship Frameworks

The same framework structure applies at Level 2 - Apprenticeship or Level 3 - Advanced Apprenticeship level

What is an Apprenticeship?

So what are Apprenticeships?

Apprenticeships are work-based training programmes designed to meet the needs of employers. They lead to nationally recognised qualifications.

How long does it take to complete an Apprenticeship?

They generally last between 1-4 years depending on level and sector (for example, an Engineering Apprenticeship can last 4 years).

Are there different levels of Apprenticeship?

There are 3 levels for people aged 16 and over:

1. Apprenticeships (equivalent to five good GCSE passes)

Apprentices work towards work-based learning qualifications such as an NVQ Level 2, Key Skills and, in some cases, a relevant knowledge-based qualification such as BTEC. These provide the skills you need for your chosen career and allow entry to:

2. Advanced Apprenticeships (equivalent to two A-level passes)

Advanced apprentices work towards work-based learning qualifications such as an NVQ Level 3, transferable skills and, in most cases, a relevant knowledge-based certificate. To start this programme, you should ideally have five GCSEs (grade C or above) or have completed an Apprenticeship.

3. Higher Apprenticeships

Higher Apprenticeships work towards work-based learning qualifications such as an NVQ Level 4 and in some cases, a knowledge-based qualification such as a Foundation Degree.

Do apprentices learn transferable skills?

Yes. All apprentices must learn transferable skills relevant to their job, including Application of Number and Communication. They may also learn other transferable skills such as Information and Communication Technology, Working with Others and Problem-Solving:

Apprenticeship Recruitment

Visit www.apprenticeships.org.uk which gives access to the Apprenticeship Vacancy Matching Service.

This service offers the following:

- employers and training providers can advertise their Apprenticeship vacancies and make contact with applicants quickly and easily
- applicants can register and apply for vacancies, store applications and receive alerts by email or text.

For more information go to:

www.apprenticeships.org.uk or call 08000 150 600

Facts about Apprenticeships for Employers

So what are Apprenticeships?

Work-based training programmes designed to meet the needs of employers. Leading to nationally recognised qualifications.

Who are Apprenticeships for?

New and existing employees. The Government funds Apprenticeship training costs.

Who runs them?

Apprenticeships are designed by the Sector Skills Councils - part of the Skills for Business network.

How are Apprenticeships developed?

Business representatives from the relevant industries work with the Sector Skills Councils to develop content. These people understand your business so training is relevant for your industry.

Where do they take place?

This is up to you. Most training is 'on the job' at your premises. The rest is provided by a local college or specialist training provider. If you have the capacity and awarding body approvals you could deliver everything yourself.

What are my responsibilities as an employer?

You must give apprentices an induction into their role and provide on-the-job training.

What do I have to pay?

Apprentices' wages, which are a minimum of £80 for a 35-hour week rising to £95 from August 09.

Will there be a mountain of paperwork?

No. The provider must ensure training provided is high quality and that public funding provided is used for training – but this is not a bureaucratic process.

Can I get help with funding?

Yes. Funding for training costs is available from the Government for public and private sector employers. The contribution varies from £1,500 - £3000 up to £10,000 - £15,000 depending on your sector and age of the candidate.

This is paid directly to the organisation that provides and supports the Apprenticeship. If you are a small business, this may be a training provider. Large employers with a direct contract will receive funding themselves.

What does the training provider do?

They work with you to:

- help decide which Apprenticeship is right for your business
- explain how Apprenticeships can work for you
- agree a training plan with your apprentice
- recruit afresh or support your existing staff into Apprenticeships
- manage training and evaluation
- ensure national quality standards are met and deliver integrated, coherent training.

How do I choose a training provider?

Make sure that the provider offers a high-quality programme. Ask for evidence of performance and get references from other employers. As all training providers are inspected, you could view their inspection report.

Value of Apprenticeships to employers:

- 83% rely on the Apprenticeship programme to provide their skilled workers
- 77% believe that Apprenticeships make them more competitive
- 76% state that Apprenticeships improve productivity
- 80% believe that Apprenticeships reduce staff turnover
- 57% report that a high proportion of apprentices become managers within their company
- 53% believe that Apprenticeships reduce recruitment costs.

It's very difficult to find engineers ready-made with the skills and experience the business needs. Bringing back Apprenticeships means we can work with quality learning providers to devise and deliver a programme that meets the skills needs of our business and the individuals we recruit.

Mike Scudamore, Commercial Director,
Cross and Morse and a former Apprentice

The whole process of raising awareness of Apprenticeships and selecting and recruiting enthusiastic apprentices will strengthen our links with local schools and learning providers and enable us to 'grow our own' talent, familiar with the culture and practice of the University.

Marj Spiller, Head of Professional Development,
Staffordshire University

If you have queries about Apprenticeships, visit the website www.apprenticeships.org.uk or phone 08000 150 600.

Facts about Apprenticeships for Learners

What are the benefits of taking an Apprenticeship?

You will be able to:

- earn while you learn
- gain practical experience
- develop transferable skills
- gain excellent career progression
- earn £100,000 more over your working life than those without qualifications.

Who can become an apprentice?

Anyone over 16 years old, who is living in England, is not in full time education and not a graduate.*

How much does an apprentice earn?

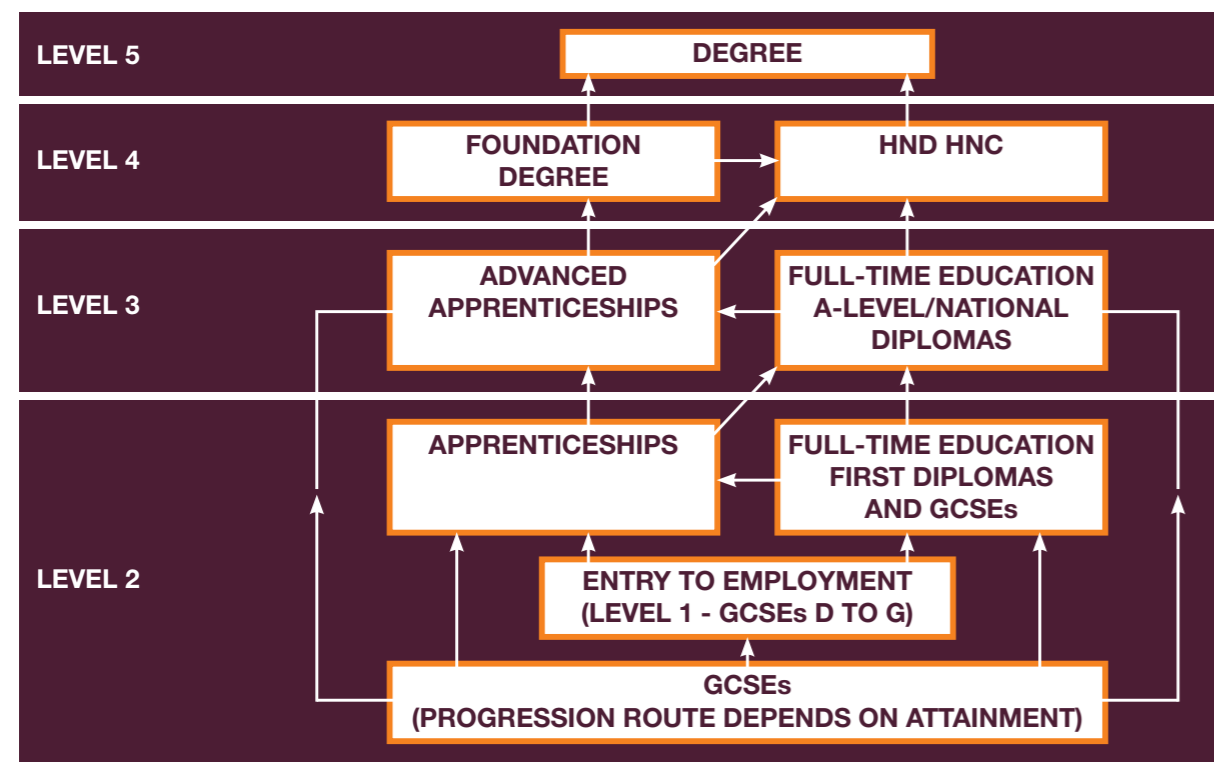

Currently there are 270,000 apprentices in England earning, on average, £170 a week. Minimum pay is £80, increasing to £95 in August 2009.

Where do I go for further advice?

Visit www.apprenticeships.org.uk for more information on Apprenticeships and to find out more about the many different programmes available. Also, visit your local Connexions office to discuss your training and employment opportunities.

An Apprenticeship will enable you to progress into further and higher education:
